GPSR - GENERAL PRODUCT SAFETY REGULATION / REGULATION ON GENERAL PRODUCT SAFETY

In May 2023, the EU published the new General Product Safety Regulation (GPSR) 2023/988 in the Official Journal of the European Union. After a transitional period of 18 months, the regulation will replace Directive 2001/95/EC on 13 December 2024 and enter into force immediately in every EU member state.

Scope of validity

Regulation 2023/988 applies to products placed or made available on the market to the extent that there are no other specific provisions under Union law relating to the safety of the products concerned, such as CE Directives or other provisions pursuing the same objective.

The GPSR applies to all consumer products placed or made available on the market in the EU.

- Placing on the market is the initial supply to third parties, whether in return for payment or free of charge, with the aim of distribution, consumption or use.
- Making available means any supply of a product for distribution, consumption or use on the market of the European Union in the course of a commercial activity, whether in return for payment or free of charge.
- Where a product is offered for sale online or by any other means of distance selling, the product shall be deemed to be made available on the market if the offer is made to end-users in the Union.

Consumer products are goods that are intended for consumers. Conversely, this means that products that are not intended for consumers and are unlikely to be used by consumers under reasonably foreseeable conditions are not covered by the regulation.

The regulation excludes the following product areas from the scope of application:

- Human and veterinary medicinal products
- Food and animal feed
- live plants and animals, animal by-products and derived products
- Plant protection products
- Means of transport and aircraft
- Antiques

The Product Safety Regulation does not differentiate between B2C and B2B sales. It lays down essential requirements for the safety of consumer products that are placed or made available on the market (Art. 1 (2) of the Regulation). According to the Product Safety Regulation, consumer products are all products that are intended for consumers or are likely to be used by consumers under reasonably foreseeable conditions, even if they are not intended for them.

Insofar as the above definition for consumer products is fulfilled in B2B sales, the obligations of the Product Safety Regulation must also be complied with in relation to B2B customers.

Obligations of economic operators in distance selling

If an economic operator makes products available on the market online, the offer must contain at least the following clear and visible information (Article 19):

- the name, registered trade name or trade mark of the manufacturer and the postal address and e-mail address at which he can be contacted
- if the manufacturer is not based in the EU, the name, address and e-mail address of the person responsible
- Information enabling the identification of the product, including the image of the product, its type and other product identifiers
- any warnings or safety information required by this Regulation or by the applicable Union harmonisation legislation in a language easily understood by consumers and provided on the device, on the packaging or in the accompanying documents

PRELIMINARY REMARKS ON CONTENT:

The product ranges of PBS Network suppliers currently fall within the scope of the GPSR. Accordingly, the regulations have been included in the article data and will be available in the regular article master data in future.

On the target channel side, the target channels that will require the data content still need to be agreed with the ARGE Expert Group DATA. We recommend provision for all target channels.

On the input side, the content can be transferred to PBS Network via XML2 and XML3 imports, the Excel upload or the DM.

The contents of the GPSR must be provided in a country-specific and accessible manner. It must be easy to view and must not be provided in documents that have to be opened first. If a product is purchased in several countries, the information must be provided in several languages.

The specification of the manufacturer's brand of the product is relevant for the GPRS as a possible product identifier. The product identifiers in the GPRS serve to ensure that the product can be clearly identified by the manufacturer/importer/etc. using this information.

Manufacturer

A manufacturer within the meaning of the Product Safety Regulation is any natural or legal person who manufactures a product or has a product designed or manufactured and markets this product in their own name or under their own trademark.

If the goods come from another EU country, the responsible person based in the EU must be stated in addition to the manufacturer's details. The responsible person or economic operator is the manufacturer if the manufacturing company is not established in the EU,

- the importer, if the manufacturer is not established in the European Union,
- the authorised representative who has been instructed in writing by the manufacturer to perform the specified tasks on behalf of the manufacturer, or
- a fulfilment service provider established in the European Union (for products handled by it), provided that no other economic operator mentioned above is established in the European Union.

In the case of imported goods, the manufacturing company and responsible person must be stated. Article 19 of the GPSR contains a list of the required information.

Responsible person / authorised representative

Authorised representative means any natural or legal person established within the Union who has received a written mandate from a manufacturer to act on their behalf in relation to specific tasks concerning the fulfilment of the manufacturer's obligations under this Regulation.

Example:

The Canadian manufacturer of stationery A assigns a company B based in the EU to fulfil its obligations under the Product Safety Regulation. Company B is therefore responsible for all products manufactured by A and placed on the market in the European Union.

In the case of imported goods, the manufacturing company and responsible person must be specified. Article 19 of the GPSR contains a list of the required information.

extended GPSR YES/NO/NN

Warnings or safety information (Precautionary statements, hazard Statements, ghs Statements and Health related Statements) plus pictograms and certificates are required if they are available for the product. To take this into account, an additional field is added that queries this property. If this is answered with TRUE, then the further information must be provided, otherwise the obligation to provide information does not apply.

Warnings or safety information must be provided in a language easily understood by consumers in the Member State in which the product is made available on the market. This information must be provided on the product, on the packaging or in an accompanying document.

When products are sold and supplied in several EU Member States, the warnings and safety information must be provided in all languages in the individual product offers that these EU Member States prescribe in their respective national product safety laws.

The GPSR does not expressly and clearly regulate whether all warnings and safety information must be provided in text form directly and immediately in the respective product offer, i.e. on the respective product page, or whether a link to further information, e.g. in a PDF file or on a downstream website, would also fulfil the requirements there.
